

STRICTLY PRIVATE

DEAR MOM—
I GUESS I'VE WRITTEN YOU ABOUT HOW THE
ARMY DIDN'T WANT NO NEW FANGLED FADS
LIKE LETTING US WEAR BOW TIES, BUT I AIN'T GONNA BE SO CRITICAL AFTER TODAY.

ONLY one starter in the outfield is Tommy Holmes, whose 309 averaged led the Braves in hitting last year. Coleman has switched Holmes from center to left field. Back from last year's team are Charles Workman, Elmer (Butch) Nichols and Al Wright. The Braves are looking for a regular berth and have impressed Coleman with his hitting. Mervyn Bluegum, William Hamner, Michael Uhlman and Stanley Wentzel, all of whom were in last year's team, are still in the team.

The pitching and fielding are there, on paper at least, but the team may be short on hitting.

Washington — The broad-shouldered, big-eyed, and big-nosed chicken and turned their chairs expectantly toward the speakers.

Busy men, no time to lose, they were listening to the speaker, a man in a suit and tie, who was speaking of the biggest company in the area, a company that had many thousands of wage earners.

These men, more than a hundred such meetings are being held, always with "top management," a small fry.

It's part of the inordinately dynamic preparation for the Seventh War Loan Drive. Payroll savings will play a bigger part than ever before.

Gamble carries a big repertoire of billion dollar figures in his fabulous memory, about which a good deal has been written.

When he sat down amid loud applause, Gamble took the floor. When you hear Gamble speak, you don't forget.

He is the director of the War Finance Division, he has been Gamble's right hand man since the early months of the program.

"You went out to sell bonds," he said, "and you sold bonds and Faith. That's a sale that we want to see."

"You talked Thrift to lot people and sold shares in the future; shares not sold by demagogic promises of something for nothing, but by a true partnership earned by sharing the load. That's a sale we want to stick to."

You sold a bill of goods to the children of the nation. You sold a bill of goods to the children of the nation. You sold a bill of goods to the children of the nation.
